REDWOOD CITY GOES JAPANESE During The

The Festival of the Chrysanthemum

JAPANESE VISITORS TELL OF MATSURIS IN NATIVE LAND

Plans for the Chrysanthemum Festival in Redwood City Told at Meeting Of Lions Club

The significance of the Kiku Matsuri in Japan, the festival of the chrysanthemum, was told members of the Redwood City Lions club as well as a large number of interested guests by K. Nakajima, secretary of the Japanese consulate in San Francisco Tuesday evening at the regular weekly meeting of the club at Emerald Lake.

The topic was of particular significance to Redwood City at this time, when the first Kiku Matsuri ever held in the United States is about to be staged in this city. Nakajima showed how the Matsuri began as a festival of prayer for better crops, and how now it is a festival of rejoicing and enjoyment, when Japan's national flower, the chrysanthemum, is in full bloom.

The culture of the chrysanthemum in Japan was described by Nakajima, who stated that the growth of the chrysanthemum in Japan was a sort of ritual. Every year a day is set aside by the emperor on which the royal court views the chrysanthemums. This is attended with great formality.

Nakajima promised the fullest co-operation of the Japanese of this district to Redwood City in staging its first Kiku Matsuri.

Plans for the forthcoming event were discussed and were entered into heartily by a number of other prominent Jajanese who were present. These included K. Yonegaki, Japanese vice-consul to San Francisco; T. Yonemoto, vice president of the chrysanthemum growers; H. Hayashi, president of the California Flower Markets, Inc.; S. Nakase, manager of the N. Y. K. of San Francisco; K. Inouye, vice-president of the California Flower Markets, Inc.; and M. Watanabe, local chrysanthemum grower.

Roy Hohberger, author and composer of the official Kiku Matsuri song, was present and introduced his song, which was enthusiastically received. This song has so pleased the Japanese that it has ben translated into Japanese, and a large number of copies sent back to Japan.

The meeting was presided over by Thomas W. Cutting, president of the Lions Club, who introduced William Curran, the chairman of the evening The meeting was attended by a large number of the Kiku Matsuri committee, members of other service clubs and by city and county officials. Among those who spoke on various phases of the celebration were Mayor D. R. Stafford, Howard I. Wood, secretary-manager of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce; William H. Moulthrop, executive director; Roy Hohberger, Sam Winklebleck, E. B. Hinman, Carrol Hall, and Roscoe Stevens, who is in charge of the Kiwanis club participation, "A Night in Old Japan."

Hit-Run Driver Held to Answer

Alleged Driver of Hit-Run Car To Face Superior Court On Charge

William Hoover, alleged hit-run driver, will have to face charges of driving off after an accident before the superior court of this county. The charges are the result of an accident which occured last Friday night on the Bayshore highway a short distance from San Mateo, and resulted in the serious injury of Mrs. George L. Emerson, and the wrecking of the Emerson car.

Hoover was given a preliminary hearing in the court of Judge Joseph Gaffey of San Mateo on Wednesday, and he was held to answer to the superior court on a charge of hit-run driving.

Hoover was arrested in San Francisco from a description of the car which had caused the accident. The description of the car and driver was given to San Mateo police by Mr. and Mrs. J. Harnish, who were near the accident and saw it occur, and it was broadcast to police departments along the peninsula. A car answering the description was seen by Officer John Minderman of San Francisco, and was stopped by him. The front of the car was badly wrecked. Hoover was the driver of this car. He admitted to the officer that he had struck another car, but said that he did not stop because no damage had been done.

The injured woman was sitting in the car beside the highway while her husband was endeavoring to crank the machine. It was thrown over and Mrs. Emerson was caught beneath it. She was taken to the Mills Memorial Hospital in a very serious condition.

SEQUOIA GRADUATE DIES IN AIR CRASH NEAR OAKLAND FIELD

Ray Boudreaux, Former Army Flyer, and Graduate with Class of 1917, Dead In Fatal Plunge

Ray Boudreaux, aviation pilot whose plane crashed near the Bay Farm Island field Wednesday carrying him and his three passengers to their deaths, was formerly well-known here, where he attended school for three years. Boudreaux entered the Sequoia high school as a sophomore in 1914, and graduated from the institution with the class of 1917. While in the local school he took an active part in school activities and was a general favorite. He was active in basketball and football and also in school dramatics.

The accident, which is said to have been the worst which has occurred at the Oakland field, at 3:35 Wednesday morning, ten minutes after the plane had taken off from the field. The first sign of trouble in the plane was a radio message received from the plane soon after the take-off in which the pilot signaled that the plane was not behaving right and that he was returning. Soon the plane was heard flying low over Bay Farm island with the engines roaring; the crash into the bay occurred an instant later.

Boudreaux was flying a giant Boeing plane running from Oakland to Seattle. He had been flying with the Boeing people for the past five months, and was previously connected with the army aviation department at Crissy field. Following his graduation from the Sequoia high school Boudreaux had entered Stanford, but left that institution to join the army aviation forces during the World War. He had considerable flying experience during that enlistment, although the signing of the armistice occurred before he had a chance to see service in France.

He continued his activities in aviation, and was a lieutenant in the Army Air Corps Reserve. He was known to be an expert flyer and had more than 1300 hours flying to his credit.

In the fatal plane with Boudreaux and sharing his fate were: Colonel W. H. Bissell, 47, of 3549 Divisadero street, Pacific Coast manager for the Wickwire-Spencer Sales Corporation, and former commander of the 318th Engineers.

F. I. Sheahan, 1900 Vellejo street, manager of the M. H. Detrick Company, 1260 Russ building.

Kirk Herre, 29, Seattle newspaper man, en route home from a vacation with relatives at Fresno. He was a son of Dr. Albert W. T. C. Herre, curator of the zoological museum at Stanford University, and now in the Orient.

A rescue tug sent to the place where the ship had struck the water, and the wreckage of the giant machine was located several feet beneath the surface. After several hours of work the plane was raised from the water and the bodies of the passengers were removed. The machine was so twisted that it was necessary to cut away portions of the wreckage before the bodies could be removed. Boudreaux had been thrown through the partition and was in the mail compartment.

Boudreaux was living with his mother, Mrs. Clara C. Boudreaux, and two sisters, Miss Adalaine Boudreaux and Mrs. Charlotta O'Dowd at 644 Tenth avenue. He was engaged to be married to Miss Marianna Luff, 2255 North Point street.

Funeral services will be held for the young aviator at 10 o'clock this morning at the chapel of the National cemetery at the Presidio. This will be followed by cremation, done at his own request, his ashes will be scattered from a plane over the waters of the Golden Gate.

Hose Thief Held By San Carlos Cop

Arrest May Halt Thefts of Hose Which Have Been Made Recently

Earl Bantz, 19, a cement worker, was arrested Wednesday night by Officer Maillard of San Carlos, and is now in the county jail charged with petit theft in connection with the theft of hose from residences on the peninsula. Bantz is said to have been caught by Millard as he was in the act of coiling up a length of garden hose, preparatory to making away with it. It is believed that the arrest of Bantz may clear-up a series of hose thefts which have occured in Burlingame. It is estimated that almost 2000 feet of hose have been stolen in the latter city.

Flower Festival Committee Meets

Redwood City Woman's Club Plans to Enter Float In Parade

The San Mateo Fall Flower Festival committees met Wednesday evening at the Penn furniture store in San Mateo with the president, Bruce Gibson, in charge.

Roscoe Wyatt, president of the San Mateo County Chamber of Commerce, told of the flower exhibit at the State Fair at Sacramento. For the third time the county was awarded sweepstakes, and received $240 of the $260 awarded as county prizes. This year San Mateo county had very close competition, Alameda county running a dangerous second in many of the exhibits.

It was reported that last year San Mateo county shipped $7,900,000 worth of cut flowers alone.

The festival will open October 23, and run to October 25. A parade of floats and decorated automobiles will be held on Friday, the school children with their school bands taking part as they did last year.

In the evening the choral section of the Redwood City Woman's Club will sing several songs in costume under the direction of Mrs. Roy Hohberger. The festival will be held in the gymnasium of the San Mateo Junior college, which will be beautifully decorated for the occasion.

The local club is providing the music and entertainment for the three day fete. A trio of musicians from Redwood City will offer some good music.

Entry blanks for exhibiting flowers and plants may be had from Mrs. F. M. Perkins, who represents the Redwood City Woman's club. A beautiful basket of flowers has been entered by the club and they also plan a float in the parade. In judging, ribbons only will be awarded for floats in the parade. Ribbons and cups will be awarded exhibitors.

Secretary Douglas of the I. A. Agricultural District, comprising San Francisco and San Mateo counties, reported tentative plans for a building of 90,000 square feet of floor space where flower shows rodeos, musicals and all sorts of displays can be held. The state has pledged $250,000 and an equal amount is to be raised by the district.

Mrs. Rupert Johnson, chairman of the garden section of the Redwood City Woman's Club attended the meeting with Mrs. F. M. Perkins.

Belmont Vote Endorses Dog Racing Track

Whippet Track Given Vote of 184 to 112 After Hot Campaign

Climaxing one of the most bitter controversies which has split the ordinarily peaceful and serene town of Belmont, an election held there on Wednesday signified the willingness of a majority of the people of the town to have a dog racing track brought to that city. The election results showed 184 votes in favor of the proposed track and 112 votes in opposition to it.

The campaign to bring a dog racing track to Belmont had been featured by an enthusiasm both on the part of the proponents of the track and of its opponents which is seldom seen even in elections of this sort. The opponents of the race track published several issues of a paper called "Dog Daze" in which the backers of the track were bitterly attacked. It was openly stated that the track was a project of Al Capone and was being engineered by henchmen of the Chicago racketeer.

Yesterday a second election was held at Belmont by which the six residents of a forty acre tract of land where it is proposed to locate the track voted to have their property annexed to the city of Belmont.

Under the county law a track of this sort could not be operated outside of an incorporated city. It was asked that the forty acre tract proposed to be used for this track be annexed to Belmont on the condition that the people of that community sanction a dog racing track. In the event that the people of Belmont had voted against the dog race track, the people living in the forty acre tract would have voted against annexation.

Mayor Jordan, one of the active workers in favor of the track said, "This is going to be a clean sporting proposition, and at the first sign of anything that is not right we will revoke the license." Others who sponsored the track were Albert Mansfield, city atorney of San Carlos; P. P. O'Connor, San Francisco business man; and Thomas A. Keen, St. Louis engineer.

County's Schools To Get $258,657 From State Fund

State School Apportionment This Year in Excess of Eighteen Million

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17 —(UP) California schools will start the school year off with a total of $18,897,605.70 in state funds.

Apportionment of this amount to the elementary, high school and district junior colleges was announced today by Vierling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction.

Of the total amount San Mateo county will receive $237,057 for its elementary schools and $21,600 for high schools.

The total apportionment of $16,533,865.56 for the elementary schools is based on 23,353 teacher units at $700, and one half the excess cost of educating physically handicapped children.

In the division of the $1,312,540.14 apportioned to the high schools, a basis of years maintained was used, at the rate of $550 for each school year. A "bonus" on the first 30 units of average daily attendance in special day and evening classes and the excess cost of educating physically handicapped children also was taken into consideration.

The $1,051,200 going to the junior colleges was divided between the 16 districts at the rate of $2,000 each, plus $100 for each of 10,192 units of average daily attendance.

The apportionment represents the first for the current fiscal year. No other state school funds will be distributed until next February when approximately $4,000,000 will go to the elementary schools and $6,000,000 to the high schools on a basis of average daily attendance records to that time.

Los Angeles county schools will receive $6,020,185.15, or approximately one-third of the total apportionment. The statistics show that Alpine and Mono counties are the only ones not supporting high school districts.

Nurse Killing Suspect Sent Back to S. F.

Crime Committed in City Is Belief of Officials; 2nd Arrest Near

Believing that Mrs. Anita B. Lund, nurse in the Laguna Honda home in San Francisco, was killed in that county and then brought to Salada Beach, where the body was found, authorities of San Francisco have taken Mario Muratore back to San Francisco for investigation.

Muratore, who is said to have been an intimate of the dead woman, was arrested in San Francisco soon after her almost nude body was found on the coastside of this county by picnickers. He was questioned in San Francisco. It was found that Mrs. Lund had died as the result of an ill-performed illegal operation. Muratore admitted that he may have been the father of the child which would have been born in about four months, but denied that he knew anything of the operation which resulted in Mrs. Lund's death.

It is the belief of officers, however, that Muratore not only knew of the operation but that he arranged for it if he did not actually try to perform it himself. It is believed that the fatal operation was performed in the basement of the Muratore house in San Francisco, and that when Mrs. Lund was found to be dead that the parties who performed the clumsy operation became badly frightened and sought to destroy the evidence and get rid of the body. Blood stains in Muratore's car have led to the belief that the body was hastily thrown into his machine and taken to a spot near Salada Beach in this county, where it was thrown from the car without even an effort being made to conceal it.

Before the body was thrown out of the car, or before it was taken from the house, it is the contention of officers that the dead woman was beaten about the face and head to give the impression that she had been murdered, and to cover up the real cause of her death. An investigation by officers, however, disclosed that the injuries to the head were of a superficial nature, and would not have resulted in her death.

The police of San Francisco believe that the operation was attempted by two persons, one of whom they believe was Muratore. The arrest of the other person, they believe will be made soon.

Death Brings to Close Active Career of Unselfish Work for Community and For Civic Betterment

Services for Donald W. Williams, well-known resident of Redwood City, who passed away early Wednesday morning, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the family residence, 610 Edgewood Road, Wellesley Park. Rev. C. H. Stevens, pastor of the First Congregational church and close friend of the family, will officiate. Interment will be in Alta Mesa cemetery. The Jas. Crowe Company is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Williams passed away shortly after one o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco, where he had been taken following a sudden attack Tuesday night at his home. He had been in poor health for the past year, suffering from a heart complaint and several months ago underwent treatment at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco. His passing was a shock to his many friends in San Mateo county, who had not regarded his condition as being so critical.

Mr. Williams was one of the best known and best beloved men of Redwood City. His kindly and amiable disposition had won him countless friends not only in Redwood City, but throughout the entire peninsula, and his death has meant a great loss to the community. He was known for his charitable, civic and philanthropic work, and during his 20 years residence in Redwood City was identified with practically every movement for the betterment and advancement of the community. Mr. Williams was prominent in church, banking, club and lodge activities. He served as county food administrator during the World war, and up to the time of his illness was closely identified with the work of the Young Men's Christian Association in San Mateo county, serving as chairman of the local committee for a number of years. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Sequoia Union High School, serving from 1924 until May of this year, when he resigned on account of his health. He was a member of the First Congregational church and for a number of years served as one of its board of directors, and also as Sunday School superintendent.

His business affiliations included directorship in the San Mateo County Building and Loan Association of this city; the Consumers' Ice Company of San Francisco; director and vice-president of the California Finance and Loan Association, Burlingame; and director of the Industrial Finance Corporation of Palo Alto. From 1911, when he came to Redwood City, to 1917, Mr. Williams served as cashier and director of the Redwood City Commercial Bank, now the Bank of America.

Born in Willows, California, October 29, 1880, Mr. Williams, while a young boy, moved with his family to New Richmond, Wisconsin. Here he spent his early life, attending the New Richmond High School and later Carleton College at Northfield, Minn. He was married on October 6, 1909, to Miss Alice Kenrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Kenrick of Fairfield, Maine. Mrs. Williams and one son, Edward Williams, survive.

Mr. Williams followed the banking business in the east, being connected with the Manufacturers' Bank in New Richmond, and later the Bank of New Richmond, serving as director of the latter institution.

Mr. Williams' lodge and other affiliations included the Redwood City Kiwanis Club, of which he was a charter member and a member of its first board of directors, the Masons, Scottish Rite, Native Sons, Emerald Lake Golf Club, Crystal Springs Country Club, and the Sons of the American Revolution.

In addition to his widow and son, Mr. Williams leaves a brother, Harry M. Williams of Pasadena. The latter arrived here yesterday for the funeral. Abram P. Williams, founder and first president of the San Francisco Board of Trade and who served as United States Senator from California in the eighties of the last century, was an uncle of Mr. Williams.

Driver Held After Crash at 5 Points

One in Hospital; One in Jail; As Car Drives Through Stop Signal

Charged with having driven through a red light and crashed into a car driven by Adolph Gardelli, Edward P. Hansen, of Gustine, was booked at the county jail yesterday on charges of reckless driving and of illegal possession of liquor.

The accident which resulted in Hansen's arrest occurred at Five Points shortly after noon yesterday. Gardelli was crossing the highway with the signal when Hansen, coming from the north on the highway crashed into his car driving it across the intersection and ending up in a heap of wreckage in front of the Fly Trap Inn.

Gardelli, who resides at the Redwood House, received severe injuries to his head when he was thrown through the windshield. He was taken to the Community hospital in Layng & Tinney's ambulance. At the hospital it was said that he was suffering from severe cuts about the head and from loss of blood. It was thought possible that he may have received a fractured skull as well.

The accident was investigated by Officers Douglass and Thorpe. A flask of liquor was found on Hansen, and he admitted having taken two drinks during the morning before the accident. He was taken before Police Judge Edward I. McAuliffe who fixed bail at $250 cash on each of the two charges.

Urges More Stringent Naturalization Laws

"I have a feeling, gained after years of experience, that our danger in this country does not alone rise from the number of aliens we receive into this country, but also from the ease with which we permit them to become citizens. Our naturalization laws are too lax. For years, instead of guarding our citizenship, we have been giving this great privilege heedlessly—carelessly," said Assistant Secretary of Labor Robe Carl White, in the United States Daily. He continued:

"In my judgment one of the great needs for the protection of our country is to make more stringent our naturalization requirements. At present an applicant for citizenship is only required to be able to sign his name—this need not be in English—and be able to speak the English language.

"And there have been instances where if he could say 'yes' and 'no' it was regarded as a sufficient qualification in this respect. Our laws also require that the applicant be attached to the principles of the constitution of the United States.

"You can readily see how vague the requirements are, and, in the last analysis it is left solely to the judge to interpret the alien's right to citizenship. For the past several years we have been trying to secure a more uniform practice in granting citizenship and much headway has been made, and I wish to add that, wherever the judiciary's attention has been called to lax procedure in these matters we find it, as a rule, ready and willing to co-operate.

"The department also has endeavored to secure the enactment of a law raising the educational standards. To this end it prepared and presented to the committees in Congress bills fixing more definitely the educational requirements, and asked that a law be passed requiring that the alien, before receiving citizenship, be able to read and write the English language understandingly and have a knowledge of our government commensurate to that taught to children 14 years of age.

"It is important to our future welfare that a bill along this line be placed upon the statute books.

"Citizenship is the most sacred privilege we have to offer aliens. It is our greatest gift to our neighbors of foreign birth and it should be guarded with the utmost care. The urge to become a citizen should originate with the alien himself and, contrary to a popular belief that seems to prevail among many of our people, I do not believe that we should urge citizenship upon anyone.

"To entitle an alien to live in this country, going and coming as he may choose in the performance of a peaceful effort to maintain life, is a good thing, but to give over to him the right to participate in the management of our affairs and to shape and control the future destinies of this country is an entirely different matter.

"Citizenship should no longer be superficially conferred. If you give them a superficial knowledge of the things they should know, you will be stamping upon their minds and souls an eternal belief that America is but a superficial idea. This, then, is one of the great problems confronting our country —to guard our citizenship."

Y. M. C. A. Drive

The Y. M. C. A. is at the present time soliciting funds here for the carrying on of its work in San Mateo county. Unfortunately for the Y. M. C. A. as well as for many would-be contributors, the present financial condition is such as to make a project of this kind difficult at this time.

The work of the Y. M. C. A. in this county, however, is so well known here that raising the necessary revenue should not prove hard even in the face of the prevailing scarcity of dollars in the pockets of the majority of the people who have heretofore carried on this work.

A valuable work among the boys of the community is being carried on every day, and year after year by the Y. M. C. A. and the clubs which have been founded by it. And in Roy Hohberger, the local representative of this organization this community has a man whose equal in work among the boys would be hard to find.

The money spent on this work is as nothing compared to the rich dividends which the future will reap in improved manhood and improved citizenship.

"If wages are reduced, I warn business and industry now that it can not expect advertising to carry the load. Advertising has accomplished remarkable results in stimulating sales during the last decade, but sales can not and will not be created if the volume of wages is reduced."—Charles A. Murphy, President Advertising Club, New York.

Bars Alien Representation

A proposed amendment to the Constitution, as provided in a resolution that was introduced in this session of Congress, whereby the representation of each state in the House of Representatives would be based upon the number of citizens in the state rather than the number of persons, is attracting an increasingly large amount of interest and bids fair to become an issue in this or succeeding sessions of the national legislative body in the near future.

Those favoring the amendment contend that the present method of apportionment gives unfair advantage to the states where there are centered a large number of aliens and that aliens, though not allowed to vote by the laws of any state, might indirectly exert a balance of power on legislation of national import. It is further pointed out that large industrial centers which naturally attract the majority of immigrants are given a larger number of representatives in Congress and, proportionately, a greater number of electoral votes in presidential elections.

The purposes and reasons for the amendment to the Constitution appear fundamentally sound. To those who believe in a representative form of government, with each citizen equally represented in its legislative bodies, the idea back of the resolution proposing the amendment has a particularly effective appeal.—The Torch.

What of Tomorrow?

Yesterday, with prosperity on every side, one was so rushed with acquiring wealth and spending it, so certain of the future, so busy becoming radio-conscious, automobile-conscious, airplane-conscious and being made aware of the many luxuries that were the products of an era, that no time was left for becoming "self-conscious." Little thought was given to the forming of character or one's ultimate destination.

Introspection became an almost forgotten term as the spiritual was submerged in the material, and wealth's illusory promises made all else seem valueless.

Today the setting has been changed. Gold, luxury and self-complacency have given way to bread lines, unemployment and poverty. One is made acutely aware of the ephemeral qualities of that which yesterday seemed permanent. Social unrest and political upheavels appear the order of the day.

Realizing that prosperity is at the best but transitory; that happiness is not necessarily an incident of material gain, is not now the time for introspection? Would it not be well for each individual in his own sphere to sort the real from the unreal—to change his course from the pursuit of illusions and start in search of truths?

Tomorrow, whether or not the trend of the human race will be toward a higher plane, with its resulting benefits to each individual, will depend upon the collective result of the many individual self-examinations and determinations. Upon each person this responsibility rests. What type of government best fits the needs of human society? What form of education best trains the youth to take part? What will be the status of affairs tomorrow? The decision lies in part with you.—Exchange.

(A symposium of editorial comment from California Newspapers.)
By MELVIN LORD

Showing a unified interest in education, California newspapers at the same time fail to agree on the results obtained by our schools.

The higher institutions of learning in particular are the subject of an apparent debate-without-end, many publications believing they are "worth the price" while others contend they fail to satisfy the needs of our modern youth.

Commenting on this public discussion The Santa Barbara Morning Press contends that the "colleges will go right on filling their roles and turning out young men and women better for having attended them."

"An educated man is not necessarily a walking encyclopedia," says the Pomona Progress-Bulletin. The one serious criticism of higher education in America is that it too often fails in just this respect—it stuffs students with facts and does not show them the importance of developing their own mental powers."

The Merced Sun Star joins in this opinion, claiming that "an educated man is primarily one who can think things out for himself."

Both The Humboldt Standard and The Alameda Times-Star satiric vein in commenting on the fact that "higher education has vindicated itself" in the discovery of scientists at the University of Chicago that a housewife can save 15 minutes and hundreds of separate motions by washing the day's dirty dishes at night, rather than after each meal.

A popular system of education is best in the opinion of The Evening Pajaronian, in an editorial aimed at the "remote control" of education by means of a proposed secretary of education in the president's cabinet, which would be "anything but democratic."

The efficiency of our public schools, however, is questioned by the Santa Paula Chronicle which calls attention to a recent historical contest conducted in Ventura county in which all six winners were students from parochial schools. "That not one of the winners should come from the public schools is an interesting sidelight which may be more significant than appears at first sight."

In support of public education, The Santa Barbara Morning Press calls attention to the fact that the increase in school attendance in the last 10 years from 579,211 to 1,104,943 is ample proof of "confidence."

"It would indeed be unfortunate if employers generally took advantage of the present situation to engage in a wage-slashing movement."—Col. Arthur Woods, chairman Emergency Employment Commission.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabinmate.

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks. Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent-a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her muddle.

Sheila, scenting adventure agrees.

Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Shelia's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her neice is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convising Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off.

The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CARLO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Harry denies this and the Count challenges him to a duel.

Sheila, in desperation, to prevent the duel, confesses that she is not Constance Kerr.

Thecount sends for Constance's aunt, stying that she will know her own niece. The old lady, on arriving, is not told what has happened, and she accepts Sheila without question.

The result is that the Count, Harry and the Baronne agree that Sheila is temporarily unbalanced.

Chapter No. 36—

She prepares to leave for Paris.

But is run down by a taxi and seriously injured.

He prepares to go to London.

Dr. Mac decides to take her home.

Suddenly her memory returns.

Chapter 47—

Amazing News

Dr. Gibbon's amazing statement made Dr. Mac rush for his coat and hat. Could it be true? Had Sheila's mind really cleared?

He hurried Dr. Gibbons downstairs, into a cab. On the way to the hospital, he asked many questions, but Dr. Gibbons could only say: "I've told you everything, and I'm as delighted as you are. This case has really been a great worry."

A nurse and an interne were in the hall when Dr. Mac and Dr. Gibbons entered the hospital. They eyed the young American physician with sympathetic interest. "How is she now?" he asked eagerly, and dashed up-stairs, without waiting for an answer.

The nurse who had taken care of Constance from the beginning was at the door of her room. She beamed as she saw the doctor. "The young lady's still asleep, sir," she said.

"You had better stay the night here, Baxter," suggested Dr. Gibbons, who had just caught up with Dr. Mac. "She may be perfectly rational when she wakes. We'd like to have you here, at any rate."

"I'll stay, surely," said Dr. Mac.

"Perhaps we'll find out about Harry," said the nurse. "I've been so curious."

"Oh, yes," said Dr. Mac blankly. "Of course."

The nurse's remark brought him down from the clouds in which he had been sailing. He began to think of every-day things.

"I must go to the steamship office and cancel my passage," he said. "I had intended to sail tomorrow, but now I think we'd better wait."

"By all means," said Dr. Gibbons. "It would be most unwise to go at this time. Now, if you want to attend to the matter, I'll stay here until you return. If the patient wakes, I want to be on hand."

"I'll be back as soon as possible," said Dr. Mac.

As Dr. Gibbons sat at Constance's bedside, he noticed that the affect of the hypodermic was wearing off. She began to stir restlessly, and at last she opened her eyes. This time they were bright and clear. She looked at Dr. Gibbons and then glanced about the room.

"Where am I?" she murmured. "Oh, yes, I know — I was hurt But what——"

"I wouldn't try to talk now," said Dr. Gibbons gently. "You've been very ill and you must rest. As soon as you are a little stronger, we'll tell you everything that has happened."

Constance sank back upon her pillows. She felt very weak, and it was hard to collect her thoughts.

"There is a young man who is most eager to see you," said the doctor, after a moment. "An old friend. He will be here very soon."

Constance's eyes filled with tears. Harry, of course! She was happy beyond words at the thought of seeing him. Dr. Gibbons rose hastily and summoned the nurse.

"She's all right," he said, in a low tone. "But keep her very quiet. I'm going down to wait for Dr. Baxter."

Just as it was growing dusk, Dr. Mac finished his errand and took a cab back to King's hospital. He glanced at his watch and fidgeted impatiently at traffic delays. It took so long to get to the hospital that he was beginning to be afraid that he would miss Dr. Gibbons but he was releaved, on alighting at the hospital door, to see the doctor's chauffeur waiting there.

Dr. Gibbons came into the hall from the office as Dr. Mac entered. His smile made the young man's heart bound. This time there was good news, he was sure.

"Well," said Dr. Gibbons, "she's all right now, apparently. She woke while you were out and spoke to me — asked where she was and what had happened."

"And did she seem to remember what had happened?" asked Dr. Mac.

"I'm sure she did. Yes, indeed. And I told her that you were here, and you should have seen how happy she looked then."

Dr. Mac could hardly believe his ears. "What did she say?" he cried.

"Well, of course, I didn't let her talk," returned Dr. Gibbons, "because I didn't want to excite her. But she was very happy. You might look into her room later on. I think she's asleep now."

Dr. Mac had the feeling that he was walking on air as he went up stairs. He fairly radiated happiness. Constance's nurse came to the door when she heard his step. He beamed at her, and she smiled reassuringly.

"May I see her?" he asked.

"She's dozing now, and I want her to get some more sleep," said the nurse. "But I'll call you as soon as she awakes. Why don't you wait here on the window-seat until she has had her nap out?"

So Dr. Mac waited, smiling happily, until, at nine o'clock, the nurse came to tell him that her patient had waked much refreshed and that he could see her now.

CLOUDBURST ROUTS TOURISTS

LAS VEGAS, N. M., (UP)—Forced to abandon their car when a wall of water from a cloudburst rushed down on them, W. O. Waller and three others scrambled for their lives to high ground. Returning later, they were surprised to find the car where they had left it. The open doors of the car permitted water to flow through.

MAY BAN SPARE GAS CANS

ELY, Nev., (UP)—If you believe in preparedness and carry an extra can of gas touring through Nevada, you will be out of luck! Assemblyman Bransom, Nevada's record-breaking law-maker, proposes introducing a new bill, which prohibits carrying of extra gas cans or tanks. Purpose: to obtain $200 additional daily revenue for state, which he claims Nevada now loses.

Refused Live-saving Reward

MEMPHIS, (UP)—Barney Randolph, 19-year-old Memphis youth, refused a $1 reward a girl offered him after he had plunged into the Mississippi river to save her from drowning. The girl who attempted suicide by throwing hersel into the rived, "was just too young and pretty to die," Randolph said in explaining why he endangered his life to rescue her.

Politically Speaking

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 14—(UP)—With but two exceptions Governor Rolph's cabinet of department heads is now composed of "Rolph men." The exceptions are:

1. Allen B. Bixby, Long Beach, director of the department of military and veterans' affairs.

2. Will J. French, San Francisco, director of the department of industrial relations.

It's whispered that the governor is planning to replace these officials, both of whom are appointees of Former Governor C. C. Young.

James I. Herz, at present deputy director of public works, is slated to succeed Bixby as director of military and veterans' affairs. On January 1 the term of Mervyn A. Hope of San Mateo will expire as member of the veterans' welfare board. This board administers the farm and home loan act for California veterans.

Herz will be made a member of the board, succeeding Hope. Governor Rolph is also authorized to specify the chairman, which will, of course, be Herz. This will pave the way for appointing Herz director of military and veterans affairs, which includes, in addition to the veterans' welfare board, the state athletic commission, California national guard, state veterans' home at Yountville and Women's Relief Corps home at San Jose.

So far nobody's been put forth as a successor to Will J. French. Among the various state jobs that became vacant September 15 under the new law setting 'staggered' terms for all state boards and commissions, is a vacancy on the state industrial accident commission. As Governor Rolph can designate the chairman of that commission, too, it will also make it possible for him to select a new director of industrial relations.

Russell Bevans, newly-named chief of the state division of motor vehicle registration, appears to be assured of the position permanently. The governor was informed this week that such action would be acceptable to Daniel J. O'Brien, acting director of the department of motor vehicles, and to Theodore Roche, soon to be made the permanet director.

The California state fair brought its usual quota of political gossip. With the arrival of Lieutenant Governor Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach came the rumor that he would oppose Governor Rolph should the latter seek re-election in 1934.

Senator Tallant Tubbs of San Francisco is a certain bet as candidate for United States senator, on a wet platform. He would seek to succeed Senator Samuel Shortridge.

candidate for re-election. Fred Stewart, member of the state board of equalization, is flirting with the idea of being a congressman from Alameda county's new district.

South of the Tehachapi several prominent aspirants for congress are mentioned, including State Senator George D. Rochester, Los Angeles; Herbert J. Evans, Monrovia; J. L. Pedrotti, Los Angeles; and Nelson T. Edwards, Orange; and Assemblymen W. G. Bonelli and Willis Baum, Los Angeles.

FIRST EDITOR'S HOME RAZED

CHEYENNE, Wyo., (UP) — The home of Cheyenne's first newspaper editor recently was torn down to make room for a new fire station. The house was built in 1880 by E. A. Slack, who edited this city's first paper. He died in 1907. His widow lived in the house for a number of years, but in recent years it had been a rooming housAe.

PEACH CROP ROTTED

MUNCIE, Ind., (UP)—W. B. Austin, who owns a large western orchard, said he was paid $25 by growers and canners to let his peach crop, totaling 45 tons, fall from the trees and rot. Austin said that he had found no market for the peaches. He estimated that, in normal years, the crop would bring more than $25 a ton, or approximately $1,500.

Woodland—Woodland Rice Milling Co. started operations recently.

Arts Would Aid Disarmament

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Sept. 10—(UP)—Development of the arts instead of armaments would solve many of the world problems, in the opinion of Joe Woo, Canton, China, philosopher and world traveler.

"Chinese people form the oldest nation in the world, yet they are considered the weakest," Woo declared. "The reason for this is that they have been developing their arts and consider culture above armaments. If other nations would follow the example set by the Chinese there would be no more wars, because they would not have the armaments to conduct them."

"My philosophy is. 'Let nature follow its course.' Everything originates from nothing and returns to nothing. Men are born to die—why spend money and time devising methods of slaughtering them?"

Woo is a graduate of the University of Southern California and has delivered lectures in the United States for the past six years.

CLOVER MAY CHECK FIRES

HARRISBURG, Pa., (UP) — The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters is experimenting with clover growth as a means of checking fire outbreaks in the woods. Experiments have shown that the clover will remain green during dry weather and will from a mat thick enough to impede the advance of the fire.

WOODSIDE

We of Woodside were just regretting the closing of the Woodside Inn by its recent proprietors when the news came that the hotel is to be re-opened under the managerment of Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson. The place is undergoing renovation and repairs and will be ready for accupancy by the first of the coming month.

The Woodside Parent-Teachers Association will hold a card party at the school auditorium on Friday evening, September 18, and the Portola Social Club will give a like party at the same place on the evening of October 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shapiro and family left on Wednesday for a motor trip to Los Angeles and vicinity. They will be gone a week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Byrne returned on Saturday afternoon after a vacation trip of several weeks along the Alaskan coast. After having seen the Grand Canyon, Bryce Canyon, the Yellowstone and other of nature's wonders, Bill admits to have received an entirely new thrill at the sight of Muir Glacier.

John Volpiano, Peter Duzanica and Robert Nahmen departed on Tuesday on a deer hunting expedition in the northern part of the state. Time has been when the local deer were numerous enough to satisfy th Woodside Nimrods, but of recent years those who really wanted deer meat have found it necessary to trek to less settled portions of the state. Even James V. Neuman, who is credited with knowing the haunts of all the game in the county has gone to Trinity county for better hunting. He took with him his son, James, and Edward Niemeyer.

Mrs. C. Pace left Woodside on Monday for Kansas to visit her mother.

Word has come of new honors won by Mrs Roth's horses at horse shows being held at Louisville, Ky.

The Woodside Firemen will hold their annual dance at the Woodside Hall on Saturday night the 19 inst. Although other dances are given here during the season this annual dance of the firemen is always rated as the big affair of the year.

NEW COATS FAVOR RESTRAINED LINES

INTERESTING USES OF FABRICS AND FURS

If ever it was evident that there's an art to the designing and making of women's clothes, it most certainly is this year. And it is particularly in the coat fashions that we see expressed the very height of good taste and effectiveness, brought a simple, unassuming general appearance which becomes an intricate mass of details on close inspection.

Rex fox luxuriously trims the Eugenie coat worn by Metro Goldwyn Mayer's Leila Hyams.

The Plastron

First in importance is the collor . . . and to what ingenuity it has resorted to take on new beauty! You're going to see much of—and you're going to love—the plastron of fur. (And lest you don't know what a plastron is, may we explain—it's derivation is French, and the association clever Plastron means the fencing pad which fencers wear to shield them while in action. Therefore the couturiers have adopted the word to indicate a deep yoke or super-imposed vest effect). The plastron frequently joins the collar and becomes one unit, masterfully cut and shaped. Several effects are gained with the plastron, one of which may be the stoye-yoke which comes down in a straight, severe line; the waistcoat which is youthful and extreme because of its double-breasted effect, pointed revers and closing; and the scarf effect, which is by far the softest and most youthful of them all.

Collar Effects

Still other interesting collars which anticipate a season of popularity are the lei collar of soft, long-haired furs; the cowl-draped collar of sleek thin pelts which are manipulated like the softest dress fabrics; the tuxedo collar of fur either flat or long-haired; the high-standing crush collar of flat furs, including the more-popular-than-every persian lamb; and a variety of novelty ideas stressing applique effects in every type of fur.

Watch Your Sleeves

Next in the march of important details comes the sleeve, which centers most of the season's interest on the dolman type, going from the merely suggested large armhole to the exaggerated effect in the most exclusive coat fashions.

Leg'o Mutton Revived

Almost equally important is the leg-o-mutton sleeve, not as modified as the most conservative of us might expect. Designers have gone to all extremes this season, and the smartest women will wear the most striking clothes. But the harmony of colors and the discriminating manner in which fur and fabric are combined will make even the most far-fetched style note in the best of taste. Next in line to the leg-o-mutton sleeve comes the melon sleeve, which we personally prefer because it gives the arm a longer, slimmer line, and carries out the dolman idea in a youthful way. Epaulet effects over the shoulders are another girlish detail, and will be seen occasionally, developed either in self-fabric, or flat fur. Carrying over the seven-eighths sleeve effects from spring's most popular styles, the sleeve that is slightly gathered at the elbow, and then flares widely above the wrist is sure to be a continued favorite, and this flare, too, will be made of either the fabric or of fur.

Stitches and Tucks

It is interesting to see how much can be done in the way of style accenting by the use of tucks and stitching in various forms. Particularly in sleeves which use very little or no fur, these stitching effects have most interest, and are used to accentuate the simplest straight-line sleeve, as well as the most elaborately cut type.

The Muff Effect

When it comes to fur trimmings, you'll find them on the most unexpectedly elaborated parts of the sleeve, from the shoulder epaulet to the elbow banding, to the cuff that starts at the wrist and runs well above the elbow. Furs are used in bandings, in softly crushed sections, in gauntlet effects, in appliqued motifs, and even as muffs. The muff cuff is not to be confused with the separate muff, because it is actually a part of the coat, and appears on only one sleeve. A little extreme, we must admit, but a very charming innovation, whether it is in a tiny melon effect, or in a widely flared type.

New Silhouettes

So much for sleeves and collars, now let's see what's being done with the bodies of the coats to afford harmony for these sleeve and collar details.

Although for the greater part sport coats are not to be confused with tailored coats for all-season wear, for the early fall there is very little by which one may be differentiated from the other. Invariably, of course, the definitely sports coat is not fur trimmed, and resorts to wide sleeves, scarf collars and loose, dolman lines for its smartness.

Tailored Types

Tailored coats, however, are becoming increasingly important in the well-dressed woman's wardrobe, particularly because dressy coats have taken on such distrinctive formality that they will be impossible for tailored or even travel wear. In the tailored coat realm for this this fall, we find such an interesting variety of styles that they provide a very refreshing change from the usual slightly fitted garment with which we became so familiar last year. In the first place, the sleeve and collar interpretations which we've mentioned above apply to these tailored or travel coats, and they are distinguished from the formal fabrics which characterize them, and which have been borrowed from the inspiring grandeur of the French Colonial Exposition. Length, too, alters the appearance of these garments, because although evening dress lengths have been reported shorter, formal daytime types are clinging to their modest length, and naturally coats follow. In the sport or tailored class, however, skirts have shortened a little, and naturally the coats have as well.

Velvet or Not

So far as the silhouette of these tailored coats is concerned, they are only slightly fitted, and belted quite high—or entirely unbelted with the waist line suggested by buttons or tucks or seams. Occasionally we see a suit effect, achieved by a self-fabric or fur-banded peplum, but this is not going to be frequently noticed in the tailored realm. For the greater part, diagonal seamings, panel effects, interesting pocket adaptations and full back effects, and often blouses (due to the dolman influence) are our most frequent silhouette variations.

Fellom Proposes Gas Tax as Aid To Unemployed

Senator's Plan Would Provide $377,237 for San Mateo County First Year

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 14—(UP)—Unemployment in every California county would be relieved through the proposed one-cent gasoline tax increase and the $20,000,000 bond issue.

This is the contention of Senator Roy Fellom, San Francisco, in working out details of the plan which has been submitted to Governor Rolph and may be considered at a special session of the legislature.

According to figures compiled by Senator Fellom and Ray L. Riley, state controller, the plan would provide for the estimated payment to San Mateo county of $377,237 the first year and approximately $139,000 the following year.

"This money would be used entirely for highway construction and provide employment for thousands of men," Fellom stated. "As an equitable means of distribution, a flat basis of $20,000 would be used for all countries, with the remainder of the money realized from the plan allocated according to motor vehicle registration.

"The money from the sale of the bonds would be available at once, and by the time the new projects were completed the gas tax money would be coming in."

According to Fellom the bonds would be retired in 10 years, or at the rate of $2,000,000 annually taken from the additional money realized from the increased gas tax.

This plan has been approved by the executive and legislative committee of the California association of county supervisors. It will be presented to the whole organization meeting in Sacramento September 11.

At that time it is anticipated the group will voice its approval of the plan and it will be submitted to Governor Rolph with the supervisors' approval. In that event it is considered likely the governor will call a special session of the legislature, inasmuch as he has indicated the recommendation of the county boards would be considered of particular importance.

PLAQUE MARKS GOLD FIND

BUTTE, Mont., (UP)—A bronze plaque marking the spot where gold was first discovered in Silver Bow county recently was dedicated by the Butte chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The plaque, which was mounted on a six-ton granite boulder, marked the spot where B. H. Barker and companions panned the first gold from Silver Bow Creek, in July, 1864. The spot is between Nissler and Silver Bow.

LINER IN FINAL DISASTER

The Panama Mail liner Colombia today lies breaking up on the Lower California coast, after having run aground Saturday night. Despite a heavy sea, 234 passengers on the liner were removed in small boats. The Colombia had twice before run aground, off the Costa Rican coast in 1924, and at Staten Island, New York, in 1930. Inset shows Capt. Theodore K. Oaks of the doomed liner.

MENLO PARK

The city council met in regular session Tuesday evening, Anderson being the only councilman absent.

The regular order of business was suspended in order to open the bids for paving Live Oak avenue, Doyle and Curtis streets. Live Oak avenue was under a separate resolution. The Valley Paving Construction Co. was the only bidder for both jobs. The bids were referred to City Engineer Mehl for compilation who returned in a short time with his figures. The bid for Live Oak avenue was $6,469.23. Engineer's estimate $6,400; Doyle and Curtis streets, $17,-935.05, engineer's estimate about $4000 above this amount. Blake didn't like the idea of only one concern bidding on both jobs, it savored of collusion. Crane said the bidding did not look just right, while Mayor Weeden thought the matter should be looked into. City Engineer Mehl urged the acceptance of the bids pointing out that some of the units were lower than the Pine street improvements. It was finally agreed to continue the award ing of the contract until September 22, to give the council time to investigate the whole matter.

The matter of fixing and approving the assessments on improvements done on Pine and other streets in the neighborhood was taken up. This was the time set for hearing protests. A protest was read from Kate Carleton, owner of Lot 2, Block 8, Oak Grove avenue. She asserted that her assessment was fixed at $283 when in fact it should only be $191.41. An adjoining 30 feet was assessed to her when it should be charged to the Mills Estate who held this lot as a right of way for many years. Engineer Mehl said the contention was correct that the 30 feet in question was given as a right away by Mills but no dedication was made at the time and the property was still held by the Mills estate although no taxes were paid on the land for years. City Attorney Whitworth contended that the Mills Estate was liable for the payment of the assessment as there were no evidence of any dedication having been made. Miss Noel declared that when the property was sold many years ago the thirty feet was given as a public right of way for use by the grantor and grantee, that the Carleton lot was declared to be a corner by the auctioneer of the property. The council held that the Mills estate was responsible for the assessment.

A lengthy protest was read from J. J. Furnival asserting that the work was poorly done, that specifications were not adhered to, that the incidentals were an extravagant charge. The people want a break which they were not getting from the council. The communication was ordered filed. C. Wolf in a protest, declared the curb in front of his property on Mills avenue is badly broken and should be fixed. City Engineer Mehls said that was caused by contraction and could not be avoided. The final settlement of the assessment roll was continued to September 22.

A communication was read from the State Railroad Commission, stating that two rotating stop flash light signals with second train indicators were to be installed at the Oak Grove street crossing and that a demonstration would be made today at 10:30. Mayor Weeden, Dale and City Engineer Mehl agreed to be present.

A check was received from the insurance company issuing the policy for the city motor cars amounting to $10.40, which was ordered paid to the Toyon Motor Company for repairs on the city car, damaged some time ago by collision.

The appointment of W. J. Bellcourt as a relief officer was confirmed by the council. He is to receive $5 when employed.

Mrs. F. R. Cain, through the city attorney, objected to offensive odor coming from the Peninsula Pigeon Farm and to the advertising sign in front of the property located on San Mateo Drive, near her home. Blake agreed to investigate the matter.

A protst was raised against the existence of a flaring red light on the Dumbarton Bridge sign on Ravenswood avenue at the highway. The light was confusing to travelers as it was taken for a train light. The matter is to be taken up with the bridge authorities by the city attorney.

Mrs. Clancey, living on Arbor avenue and Valparaiso avenue, complained about the burning of feathers on a chicken farm, near her residence. The complaint was referred to the city attorney.

The application of Mrs. Willard of Redwood City to conduct a tea room and fortune telling establishment on the highway, near Pitts Barbecue, was denied.

Alexander Walker addressed the council saying that the erection of a club house on Live Oak Lane, near his home was opposed by the property owners in that locality. That would serve no purpose but would be a detriment to the community. On a motion of Crane, seconded by ..... the building permit was temporarily suspended and all work stopped until further order of the council.

The report of Chief of Police Love for the month of June was as follows:

Motor vehicle violations, $50; other violations, $127; city licenses $340; dog licenses $12; total $529.50.

August report, motor vehicle violations, $90; other violations $158.50; licenses $211.50; dog licenses $42.25; hall collection $40; total $542.25.

Mrs. Carroll A. Devol, widow of the late Major-General C. A. Devol, Menlo Park, has returned after spending three months with her daughters, Mrs. A. Bates, Long Island, N. Y., and Mrs. George Brett, Selfridge Field, N. Y. Mrs. Devol brought Miss Dora Brett, daughter of Major and Mrs. Brett, back with her to attend the Sacred Heart Convent in Menlo Park. Mrs. Devol is active in the National Council of Catholic women as well as being a leader in all charitable work of the community.

E. Harms, the local druggist, has leased the vacant store adjoining his pharmacy in which he will open a variety store. The place was formerly occupied by McLoughlin, the shoe dealer. The quarters are now being remodeled and will be opened shortly.

Police Commissioner Crane, for economy purposes, has ordered the discontinuance of the motorcycle by the department for the present. These are the days of retrenchment, and Mr. Crane desires as much as he can to cut taxes for the downtrodden taxpayer.

Menlo Parlor N. D. G. W. on Tuesday evening, September 30, will give a benefit card party in the school auditorium. Among the many prizes to be awarded are embroidered pillow cases. Admission will be twenty-five cents.

Rev. Hiram W. Harbaugh, 78, a retired Presbyterian minister, passed away at Palo Alto last week. Some years ago he was the pastor of the local Presbyterian church. During his pastorate he did splendid work and was highly esteemed. He is survived by his widow and a son, Doctor Ross Harbaugh of San Francisco and a daughter, Mrs. M. Chamberlain of Palo Alto.

Joseph Bagley, gate man at the Oak Grove street crossing for some time is soon to lose his position as flash light signals are to be installed. The Southern Pacific Company is installing these signals all along the system. Bagley, who was an efficient flag man, is to be transferred to Redwood City.

The State Highway Commission has awarded a contract to pave six miles of the Bayshore boulevard from Redwood City to Oregon avenue in Palo Alto. The work is to be completed in two months, just in time for the big game between California and Stanford. The contest is to take place at the Stanford stadium this year.

Alice Claire Smith of Napa, a niece of City Clerk Mrs. M. I. Kurtz, is here on a short visit with her relative before resuming her studies at the State Teachers' College at San Jose.

Mrs. J. Buelna is seriously ill at her home on San Antonio street. She may not recover as she is well advanced in years. Mrs. Buelna was born at the Presidio, San Francisco, when it was under Mexican jurisdiction. She was the first to build a home at the reservation. Her father and mother were raised at Mission Dolores and were married there.

A horse bearing a long Indian name and owned by Mrs. George Uhl, sister-in-law of the candidate for mayor of San Francisco, won second prize at a show in Kentucky yesterday, sharing tin the $10,000 stake. The animal won prizes here at the dog show at Atherton last month. Mrs. Roth took a liking to the horse and had him sent to Kentucky. The animal was trained at the estate of Edward Doyle, Menlo Park. His trainer was A. D. Davis.

A meeting of the citizens of Menlo Park was held at the city hall last week to provide ways and means for taking care of the unemployed of this community next winter.

Judge Jean Hoss was named general chairman of the organization formed. Earl L. Hook was named treasurer and Miss Meta Kugeler was appointed secretary. Chairman of sub committee named were: Rev. W. L. Bone, finance; Mayor W. H. Weeden, public work; F. L. W. McDonald, private work, and Dennis O'Keefe, publicity.

The meetings are to be held every Friday night at the city hall.

On Tuesday evening, September 30, the Menlo Parlor, N. D. G. W. will give a benefit card party in school auditorium, highway, Menlo Park. Hand embroidered pillow cases for prizes. Admission 25c.

Boy Scout News

The red necker troop sponsored by the American Legion held a very interesting outdoor meeting last week near Steinbergers Wharf. Thirty Scouts and several American Legion men attended the night hike and enjoyed the stunts and program. Roscoe Savage assisted by Gordon Leighton and Ray Torley laid out a tracking trail to be followed by the patrols. Olin Smith led his boys to the rendevous first and was solemnly awarded the silverette loving cup trophy.

As the other patrols trailed in, a camp fire was built on the beach and the boys warmed up with yells and songs. A snappy program of imitations and stunts was conducted by the boy leaders. Scoutmaster Stevens had a story and a harmonica. Finally Scoutmaster Savage dug up a sack of apples and cookies and the Scouts called the meet a great success.

Troop No. 143 elected new patrol leaders at the last meeting and are ready to go along the Scouting trail more enthusiastically than ever. Bob Steffens and his aid Bob Sutton plan to put their young charges through some srenuous Scout work during the coming months.

The Sea Scout Ship plans to promote a sailing race for boats under 16 feet for the Hansen trophy. The race will be held next Sunday at Yacht Harbor when the P. I. C. Y. A. or yacht clubs from all about San Francisco bay will be visiting Redwood City. Nine boats have already been entered and a lively race will result.

A very interesting training course for scoutmasters and troop committeemen will be held in San Mateo commencing October 29 and continuing for 7 weeks. This course is free and is well worth enlisting in, if one is connected with scout work or would like to become associated with it. Experts in many Boy Scout activities will be in charge and are preparing an unusually interesting program. Anyone interested may communicate with John Rhoda, local scout executive.

Yacht and cruisers from all sections of San Francisco bay will commence to cast anchor here after noon on next Saturday beginning their annual visit to our harbor. The Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Association is sponsoring the event.

The visitors will include sailers from Vallejo, Alameda, San Francisco, Oakland and Belevedere. Many fine yachts rendezvous here for the event and usually stay over until Sunday afternoon. The Redwood City Yacht Club will be host to the visitors and is arrangisg for their entertainment.

It will be an interesting sight to see the fleet sail in and drop anchor. The dinghies and outboards will be busy transporting visitors from boat to boat and to shore and the yacht harbor will in all be a busy spot.

BANANAS VALUED AT $19,000

CRISTOBAL, C. Z.,(UP)—Suit has been filed in the Federal District Court here by J. S. Perino, of Colon, Panama representing the American Banana Co., against the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co., for $19,253, losses claimed because of the alleged failure to provide proper refrigerating facilities for banana shipments.

SPEAKING of SPORT

BY FRANK GETTY

Football Interest Due To Remain at Peak

Figures on attendance and gate recepits at college football will be doubly interesting this season. This is, because they will afford proof of the correctness of almost any premise taken on the state of the great fall sport.

The Carnegie Foundation has offered figures to show that a decline in interest set in last season. The United Press conducted a survey which showed that while this was so in some sectors, it was not so in others. There was a lessening of attendance in the East and mid-West, and gains in the South and Far West.

As was pointed out at the time of the survey, the interest, as evidenced by attendance, was in direct proportion to the state of the play itself. Football greatness was lessened a bit in the East. It stood firm in the mid-West, and gained in the South and Far West. This only goes to prove further that the fan will follow in the wake of a winner.

Decrease in Attendance May be Expected

It's to be expected that there will be noticable decreases in patronage. The defenders of football in its present status will attribute this to the fact that eating and amusement dollars are somewhat fewer and farther between this fall. Reformers will attribute it to decrease in interest generally, although they may admit that economic conditions had a slight effect.

Major John Griffith, commissioner of the Western Conference, was in the East a few days ago and told the United Press that he expects no decreases in attendance and "fan" interest. He said that advance sale of tickets this season has been higher than in ten years.

It's interesting to observe that scarcely any games have been cut from the national schedule because of conditions. There is a college here and there which has abandoned football for maybe a year and maybe for always, but in the general scheme of the game there will be no reduction.

When dead leaves are burning of a nice October afternoon the fans will turn to the stadia. And just try to buy tickets to some of the games.

Speedy Mounts Being Brought For Tanforan

Davidson Stables Will Enter Seventeen Mounts in Race Season

Quality is represented in good measure in reservations for stalls piling up for the coming meet at Tanforan. Among the important establishments to be shipped from the "big time" is that of C. E. Davison who will bring out about seventeen good ones. Right now the Davison runners are winning features at Lincoln Fields.

Davison does not worry about getting plenty of racing material as he and Bennet Creech, trainer of the W. R. Coe stables divide the Coe horses between them. Coe has the well known Shoshone Stud in Kentucky and turns out such fliers as Osculator and Polonaise, winners of stakes on New York tracks. Coe was the last owner of Friar Rock, once a Californian and a successful sire for a number of seasons.

It takes little out of such a son of Friar Rock as No More to negotiate three quarters in phenomenally fast time. The gelding which was bred at the Shoshone haras, scored in the Davison colors at Arlington Park in 1:10 and a fraction, equalling the track record.

In the event that No More holds his form he looms as a formidable eligible for the San Bruno Handicap, at six furlongs, to be renewed at Tanforan on the first Saturday of the session opening the first part of November. Last fall, it will be recalled, Schooner, a two year old, was the victor in the San Bruno.

Infinity, which has raced at Tanforan inother colors, is going some himself and is likely to be heard from in the host of company when trainer Davison saddles him in November. The aptly named son of Eternal is winning race after race at Lincoln Fields.

PENN STATE COLLEGE OUTLOOK IS NOT BRIGHT

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 18—(UP)—Football prospects for the 1931 season were not so bright at State College, once the home of the most feared elevens in the East.

Only seven lettermen responded to the opening call of Coach Bob Higgins, one-time all-American end. There were no ends, nor centers, in the group, and only two backs, one of them a substitute last season.

Higgins will have to build his attack around George Lasich, captain and fullback, and Bob Snyder, who filled halfback and quarterback assignments last season.

South's Heaviest Foursome

BRISTOL, Va., (UP)—One of the heaviest 18-hole foursomes in the history of Bristol was played here recently when George, Dave and Harry Parrish, brothers and Frank Goodpasture participated. George Parrish tipped the scales at 250 pounds; Harry, 230, and Dave, 205, while Goodpasture came through with 215 pounds. Dave and George Parrish won, 3 up.

PINT STILL RAIDED

SMITHFIELD, N. C., (UP)—Deputies H. M. Parker and W. W. Stewart recently found a pint capacity copper still, complete in every detail. An eight pound lard bucket was used as the condenser, and the container for the manufactured product was a half gallon fruit jar. Marion Corbett, the owner of the minature still, was arrested.

WESTERN SWIM STARS

Helene Madison, greatest woman swimmer in the world, was the center of interest at the far western swimming championships held Sept. 12 and 13 in San Francisco. Austin Clapp, P. A. A. champion (upper), and Ted Wiget, northern California representative, both from Stanford, also starred.

Hailstones Make Ice Cream

BILLINGS, Mont., (UP) — The terrific hailstorm which destroyed crops along Indian Creek southeast of here recently was not without its benefits—at least that is the opinion of the farm children. The high wind, which accompanied the storm, drove the hailstones into drifts, which lasted for some time, and the farmers' children used the ice which nature had provided, to make ice cream.

CAVE YIELDS HISTORIC DATA

STUTTGART, (UP)—The accidental discovery of a cave in the so-called Swabian Alb, near Ulm, has resulted in a great number of valuable prehistoric finds. Most important of these is the skull of a man of the Aurignac period. It is the first of its kind to be unearthed in Germany, though others have been found in England, France and Austria. Excavations under the direction of the University of Tuebingen have proved that the cave was a Neolithic burial place.

FAMED BRITISH RACER, PRETTY POLLY, DEAD

EYREFIELD LODGE, Kildare, Ireland, Sept. 18 — (UP) — Pretty Polly, Britain's most famous race horse ridden to many important victories by the late Danny Maher, the notable American jockey, is dead.

The popular chestnut mare died here on the same stud farm where she was born 30 years ago. Her death ends the famous turf quartet of the owner Major Eustace Loder; the trainer, Peter Purcell Gilpin, and the jockey, Danny Maher.

She was known as the Lady of the Turf. She never had a whip put across her, or was touched by a spur.

Twenty-seven years ago she was the idol of the racing public. During four years of active competition she was beaten but once in England—in the Ascot Gold Cup of 1906. She once was beaten in France, but on the occasion had been upset by a Channel crossing. These were her only defeats during a career which brought approximately $180,890 in stakes to her owner.

All her victories, which included the One Thousand Guineas, the Oaks and the St. Leger, were won in effortless style. Whenever Pretty Polly ran the stands knew the picture that would pass before them. She came into the home stretch with her neck low and her jockey glancing back over his shoulder to watch other horses and riders fight for second and third place money.

Pretty Polly possessed what Irishmen love to refer to as "horse sense." She ran her own races and met all comers without asking quarter. She had many of the fine qualities later to be shown in that great running horse, Man-o-War.

Danny Maher once said: "She's not a mare at all, but something unnatural."

At the height of her career she was valued at $145,500. Her debut as a two-year-old at Sandown Park was a sensation. Her charming manners on the track were the same in the stable. She had a little pal, a cob named Little Missus who always traveled with her when she went racing and usually accompanied her from the paddock to the starting post. Whenever she walked she picked her way as if afraid to injure her dainty hoofs.

Oddly enough, she was not a success at the stud. Only four of her offsprings won races and their combined total in stake money barely reached $15,000.

Sequoia Shows Strong Team on Football Grid

Varsity to Play Its Fourth Game Tommorrow with Sacred Heart

With a record of three successive shut-outs to their credit, much may be expected from the Sequoia high school varsity football team this year.

Veteran players with at least one season of experience fill all the positions of the line, while much raw material and several former 130-pounders form a good reserve squad. Three players, Leo Leroy, end, Jim Rhoda and Charles Anthony, tackles have experienced two years of Cherokee football and have used their knowledge to good advantage so far this season.

This year's first-string backfield is composed almost entirely of last term's 130-pound secondary men. Charles Preston, half; Eno Ferrando, quarter; and Roland Craven, full, have shown up as formidable a looking defense as can be looked for. Roy McQuilkin, veteran half from last year's unlimited squad is the other member of the backfield. All players are juniors in school and will serve the varsity next year.

Along with the first string backfield are some valuable reserves, including Kenneth Hinchman, John Costa, and Loyd Elliot. Though inexperienced, they are well built, speedy, and will make good material for next year's squad.

Sequoia high school will enter her fourth practice tilt this saturday against Sacred Heart on the local field.

MUSEUM GETS MASTODON

CANYON, Tex., Sept. 18—(UP)—The fossil of a giant mastodon that once roamed the western plains perhaps 25,000 years ago, paleontologists estimate, and which was discovered in a gravel pit near Amarillo recently, has been placed in the museum rooms of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society at the West Texas State Teachers College here.

This fossil was added to the already large collection of the society, which will be placed in the new museum building on the college campus in Canyon. Work on the building is expected to begin this fall. The recent session of the legislature voted $25,000 for the museum to be matched with $25,000 of private funds, for the construction of a $50,000 building. Almost $20,000 of the outside funds have been pledged and a portion of the amount collected.

When completed, this will be the first state museum to be erected in Texas. It will house the large collection of relics, records, historical information, Indian collections, mounted animals and bones of prehistoric animals. Much of the collection concerns historical data of the early life of pioneers on the plains of Texas. Donations to the society are being received from all sections of the state and some from out of state.

King George Wears Tartan

BALMORAL, Scotland, Sept. 18—(UP)—King George and his sons wear the "Queen Victoria tartan" when attending any public functions in Scotland. The tartan takes its name from the fact that it was designed for Queen Victoria by an old lady who lived in Inverness.

The King likes to maintain the Highland customs and directs that all those entitled to wear the kilt shall do so on formal occasions. Each morning that the pipers "pipe" the King, between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, the Scotch dress is worn in full detail.

Although the King wears kilts, he has not been seen blowing the bagpipes. The Prince of Wales can play the pipes and during his undergraduate days at Oxford University "ruined" many an otherwise peaceful evening by playing chants and marches.

At some of the dinner parties given here His Majesty appears in the kilt and the short jacket of Scotch evening dress. Sometimes the Queen wears a strain of Scotch ribbon on her dress.

HUGE CATFISH CAUGHT

RADFORD, Va., (UP)—The largest catfish seen in years was displayed recently by Artie Roberts and George Caldwell. It measured 37 inches in length and weighed 25 pounds.

HUGE CUCUMBER GROWN

GREENVILLE, N. C., (UP) — James L. Corbett believes he has set a new record in cucumber growing for this part of the state. He grew a cucumber weighing five pounds, 14 inches long and 12 inches in circumference.

Bank Compiles Statistics on State's Growth

California and Penn. Only States with Two Cities Over 600,000

The success of the State Fair at Sacramento has prompted the Analysis and Research Department of the Bank of America to compile a number of interesting facts on the economic history and position of the state. The facts have been collected in bulletin form and sent to all of the branches in the bank's system, under the heading "Confidence in California", which is also the State Fair slogan.

The bulletin shows that California and Pennsylvania are the only two states in the union that contain two cities of over 600,000 population each. By way of contrast with the growth of California's cities and industries the bulletin sets forth that there are some 30,442,581 acres set out in farms and orchards, and that there are millions of acres of tillable land remaining. The total land area of the state is 99,617,280 acres.

According to the bulletin there are 10,066 industrial establishments in the state and the number of industrial wage earners averages 262,816. The importance of the banks in the development of business, agriculture and industry is shown in the statement that about nine-tenths of all business payments are made by check and that bank clearings have increased by 43.4 percent in the past six years.

Perhaps the most striking figures of all deal with California's growth in population. In 1860 there were 379,994 people in the state, and in 1930 the number had risen to 5,-292,015. This is an increase of 1392 percent, as compared to the general national increase of 290 percent in the same seventy year period.

The yearly grand total of money returns for products of all kinds had reached $3,365,276224 according to the latest available figures. Of this grand total $2,593,247,224 applied to industrial products, and $772,029,000 to products of the soil, livestock and poultry. Indicative of California's agricultural growth the bulletin stated that there was an increase of 383 percent in the money value of farm holdings in the 30 year period between 1900 and 1930, the figures being $707,912,960 for the former and $2,711,557,804 for the latter year.

The bank estimates according to the bulletin that California can support five times its present population, or approximately 25,000,000 inhabitants, without over draining her resources.

Mr. Walker also stated that more stringent laws should be passed for emigrants and that anarchism should be punished by long terms of imprisonment.

50 YEARS AGO

Times and Gazette, Sept. 17, 1881

"Ocean View" for "San Miguel" is a jusicious change of name. The prefix "San" or "Santa" is in our Pacific Coast nomanclature a somewhat too constant reminder of the Spanish occupation, and of the time of the old padres. All the way down the railroad, from San Francisco to San Jose, and far beyond, there is a constant and wearisome succession of "Sans' and "Santas," Blessed be the memory of the level-headed pioneers who named our town Redwood, instead of baptizing it after some cannonized holy man!

The Town Trustees met on Monday evening at their new quarters at the Germania Hall for the purpose of receiving the assessment books. These were formally presented by Assessor Walsh, and received by the board. The harmony of the meeting was slightly disturbed by John Gosch, who declared himself the party who should have been contracted with in hiring the premises, and protested against the action of the board in occupying the room without first having secured a lease from him.

There are still a few nails protruding above the sidewalks in various parts of the town, to which the attention of the Superintendent of Streets is respectively called.

The Santa Cruz county jail has but one prisoner, while Sheriff Green has nine in his boarding house. This is not because Santa Cruz is more virtuous than San Mateo; but because our authorities are keener and more wide awake in going after evil-doers.

W. Thomas Named to Thrift Corp. Post

Wendell C. Thomas has been appointed District Manager in Santa Clara and San Mateo counties for the National Thrift Corporation of America, according to an announcement to Leo T. Porter, vice president and secretary of the company.

The business of the National Thrift Corporation is the issuance and sale of first mortgage gold bonds and collateral trust installment certificates.

Approximately $75,000,000.00 of National Thrift Corporation's bonds have been purchased by the American public, and investors in these securities now exceed 35,000 individuals located in 22 states in which the corporation has established its business.

The corporation's resources showed an increase of 40 per cent during 1929, a remarkable increase during a year of business depression.

Thomas, who has been an active leader in civic development in California for the past twelve years, is president of Santa Clara County Consolidated Chambers of Commerce, a past Secretary of San Jose Chamber, a Past Governor of California-Nevada District of Kiwanis Club, and was active in securing the navy dirigible base for Sunnyvale.

Thomas has offices in the Bank of America Building, in San Jose, and is widely known as a business man of high standing.

Instruction at High School Aimed To Fit Individual

Every effort is being made at Sequoia Union high school to fit the school to the pupil and not the pupil to the school, according to A. C. Argo, principal.

By one of the most advanced systems of counseling in the state of California, the needs and desires of each student are found and the curriculm is adjusted to fit these requirements, he states.

Not only do the five counselors advise students as to courses, but also help them decide about their future vocations and plans to help them prepare for their life work. Advice on participating in school activities is also given, as well as help to any pupil in regulating his social life and obtaining employment desired.

Classes are arranged according to the ability of the students in three groups, members in each being as equal in ability as possible. Even in the separte classes, capacity assignments are given to further equalize the work according to an individual's ability.

The faculty is continually studying methods of teaching in order to give the students the best system of instruction. The curriculum is not set, but is constantly being revised to better meet the needs of the student body.

"The aim of the school," explained Argo, "is to study carefully each individual pupil and make the school the best possible for him."

Wanted—Left-Handed Mower

SOUTHBORO, Mass., (UP)—The state of Massachusetts is looking for a left-handed mowing-machine, or perhaps an ambidextrous one would do. Grass is to be planted in the central lane of the new Boston-Worchester turnpike. Because of heavy traffic, officials realize that the machine to mow the grass must travel in the same direction as traffic. Thus the ordinary mowing-machine could cut the grass on only one side of the lane, a "southpaw" machine being needed to trim the other side.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

My wife has the same instant hot water service at home....

It saves her time and energy... It is inexpensive because of cheap Natural Gas

My wife doesn't play valet to a non-automatic water heater.

Instant hot water cleans two to twenty times faster. It therefore gives her hours of freedom each week for shopping or entertainment.

Furthermore, instant hot water costs less per gallon—this is especially true now because of cheap Natural Gas.

Automatic Gas Water Heater requires no watching

You never watch the Automatic Gas Water Heater. It heats the water to about 140 degrees, stores it, and turns itself off. All you ever do to get a basinful or a tubful of hot water is to turn the faucet any time of the day or night. The water stays hot because the boiler is insulated. No gas is wasted.

Stop in today at our office and see the Automatic Gas Water Heaters. You can have one installed in your home now for a small sum, the balance to be paid in monthly installments.

CITY LIBRARY BOARD ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Dr. N. C. Cummings was elected president of the board of trustees of the Redwood City Free Library at the annual meeting of the board Tuesday night. He succeeds Mrs. A. S. Kalenborn, who resigned the position after three years of successful administration of the office. The board extended Mrs. Kalenborn a vote of thanks for her untiring efforts and interest in the library.

Stanford Dole was named secretary. The other members of the board are Mrs. Kalenborn, Mrs. Z. T. Thorning and John Gill.

On account of the great increase in circulation and the lack of funds, caused by the inability of the city council to increase the library appropriation this year, the board has found it necessary beginning October 1, to extend the time for receiving and giving out books from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. The library will be opened however for reading at the usual time, 10 o'clock. Miss Harper, the librarian, and the other members of the staff are co-operating in the matter by donating their personal time withont any extra ccmpensation. At the annual meeting Miss Harper sumbitted her annual report which is published herewith:

Annual Report of the Redwood City Public Library
July 1, 1930 - June 30, 1931
To the Hon. Board of Trustees:
Book Circulation

Our bock circulation for the year just closed totals 88,712 volumes. This is an increase over the preceding year of 27,371 volumes, and is more than double the annual circulation of two years ago. Our average monthly increase has been 2,281. During the last half of the year we circulated 10,804 more books than during the first half. Comparisons with other years follow:

Annual circulation, 1928-1929—33,397 Volumes (average monthly 3,200 volumes.)

Annual circulation 1929-1930— 61,341 volumes (average monthly 5,112 volumes).

Annual circulation 1930-1931—88,712 volumes (average monthly 7,393 volumes.

This year's record circulation gives Redwood City the extremely high per capita rate of 10 books, in spite of the fact that we allow fewer books per member than many libararies do. Our adult fiction increase for the year was 12,191; the adult non-fiction increase, 7,285; the juvenile increase, 7,895.

During the summer months our circulation has been higher than for most of the winter months. We issue daily from 300 to 400 books which means that from 150 to 200 persons receive individual attention at the library each day. This calls for very constant activity on the part of the desk attendant for this part of the work alone. The average member draws two books at a time. While we allow four (if two are non-fiction) only occasionally does the special student take that many.

Our budget allotment for the past year was only $1,540 more than for the preceding year with which to meet a 27,000 increase in book circulation.

Book Equipment

There were 2,850 new books added and prcceesed during the year. This is 625 more than for the year previous. The average library that puts through this number of books requires a full-time cataloger for this important work. By having the part-time service of a cataloging specialist, we have been saved much expense and have been able to start one of the most adequate catalogs in the state. Since it is necessary to prepare an average of four or more cards for each book added, there have been approximately 12,000 catalog cards to type and file during the year past.

Our total book equipment now numbers 9,955 volumes, while our need and activity now calls for a stock of at least 20,000 volumes. We have added non-fiction faster than fiction for the reason that previously this has been an almost entirely fiction library. It is now time to add a large percentage of the non-fiction books which are being read as eagerly as the fiction. We have neither the space nor the funds to add the children's books that are needed, nor the books of reference.

We rebound 1,076 books during the year which prolongs their life indefinitely. There were 1,589 books mended.

Number of Borrowers

During the past year 1,436 new members have joined the library. This has been at the rate of 120 per month. Every effort is made to meet their greatly varied needs and wishes. Our total membership at the close of the year was 3,932. This is 45% of the population. Most of these have joined since re-organization, as prior to that the active library users numbered 1,575. There was an average of 23 books circulated to each member during the year. One hundred thirty-eight borrowers left town during the year, and were cancelled.

Reading Room Attendance

Our reading room attendance constantly increases, there having been a total of 16,089 persons who came for reading and study purposes during the year. An increasing number of men use the library, as well as high school students. In our limited quarters that is always insufficient seating capacity on busiest nights The increase in reading room attendance was 4,454 and it is fast becoming impossible to accommodate so many

Besides the 50 to 75 persons who come daily to study and to read, from 150 to 200 others come to exchange books. Reference questions were looked up and answered during the year to the number of 2,299. This is 718 more than last year. No one is turned away without procuring the desired information. This important part of the work comes during the busiest hours of the evening.

School Service

It is a matter of great regret that we are unable to adequately fill requests from schools for home reading books, due to our shortage, for many children live too far away to use the library. There seems need for the establishment of a branch library in the vicinity of Five Points in order to reach these children and the number of adults from that locality.

Instruction in the use of the library was given to 701 seventh and eighth grade pupils from McKinley school during the second term of the year. We feel that this is a highly important part of their education and were very glad to have these nineteen classes visit us with their teachers. There were also eleven visits made to schools during the year to learn of their book needs.

We have also offered co-operation with the Girl Scout directors and have had a special reading shelf for the girls. During Book Week a group of 30 visited the library. And a book talk was given by the librarian at the Woman's Club.

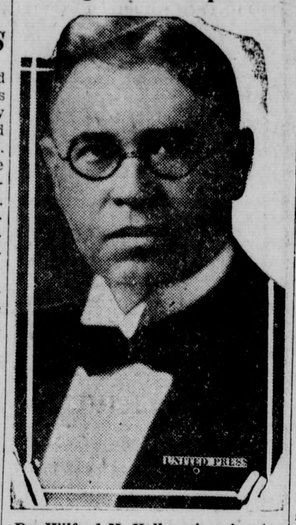
Staff

Our staff of assistants, Mrs. Gardner, Miss Wood, and Miss Garcelon, has worked tirelessly to meet the increased library activity. We are also grateful to Miss Peters for her invaluable cataloging assistance.

The library's progress is due entirely to the most helpful co-operation of the Board of Trustees and deepest appreciation is herewith expressed.

Respectfully submitted,
WILHELMINA HARPER,
Librarian.

Highball Expert



Dr. Wilfred H. Kellogg is going to make highballs safe—as far as legitimate part of beverages go. He has been named in charge of the bacteriological food and drug laboratories and one of his duties is the study of ginger ale, lime rickey and other charged waters. Tests are now being made.

Sale Meeting with Unusual Response

The sale which opened atBeeders on Broadway Wednesday has met with a wonderful response on the part of the people of Redwood City and the adjoining territory. The sale is still in progress, and while many of the wonderful bargains offered there have been purchased, there is still a large stock to select from, and many bargains still remain.

"The Front Page", Howard Hughes' screen version of the Ben Hecht story of the newspaper fraternity, is to be given its initial showing in San Mateo at the Baywood theatre, Saturday evening following the last regular show of "Cimarron". The success of the first midnight show at the new theatre prompted Mr. Levin, the managing director, to select "The Front Page" for the second of the midnight previews. The complete program accompanying the feature will be shown starting at eleven thirty, to which newspaper officials of peninsula publications are invited as guests of the management. Patrons who attend the last evening performance of "Cimarron" may remain for the preview of the "The Front Page."

Depression Village Citizens Look Forward to Better Days

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18—(UP)—Along the Mississippi, just under the Free Bridge, several queer communities are growing. The inhabitants, who call themselves "down-and-outers," are anxiously awaiting the fall season when, they seriously believe, "things will pick up a little and then we'll be able to get work."

In the meantime, out of old boxes, crates and driftwood, they have built their "depression villages," and ironically named them Happyland, Merryland and Hooverville.

Each settlement has its open air community kitchen. At meal time—usually an uncertain event—all gather around the cobblestone stoves. Their meals generally consist of Mulligan stew or soup served in tin cans.

Happyland is the nearest settlement to the bridge. The houses are shantyboats moored at the mouth of Mill Creek sewer—or Mill Creek "Bay" as the residents prefer to call it. Just across the "Bay" is Merryland, composed of both shantyboats and little dug-out houses on the river banks.

Hooverville the next in line, is a different type of village. The northern part of the settlement has been taken over by negroes who have built their homes of tough, brown paper boxes. The southern part, however, has been reserved for whites.

The majority of houses, including that of Gus Smith, unskilled St. Louis laborer, in whom the mayorial authority of Hooverville rests, are built chiefly of old packing boxes thrown from passing boxcars. Smith has built his home in "exclusive" Hoover Heights, a suburb of Hooverville.

Some houses are neat, with flowers and vegetables growing in the yards and are surrounded by whitewashed picket fences, while others are built of junk and debris.

Rent is free in the depression villages and the only requirement for entry is posted on a large sign in the center of Happyland:

"If you're all right you're welcome."
